Q1: Translate the following passage into Arabic

India suffers first recession in decades

India has plunged into recession for the first time in nearly a quarter of a century as the pandemic continues to weigh heavily on Asia's third biggest economy, which economists warn will struggle to recover from the slump. Official data published on Friday showed gross domestic product for the July-September quarter fell by 7.5% compared to the same period last year, when the economy was growing by more than 4%.

That follows a record drop of nearly 24% in GDP in the April-June period, the first quarter of India's fiscal year. "With a view to contain the spread of the Covid-19 pandemic, restrictions were imposed on the economic activities not deemed essential during [the first quarter]," the Indian Ministry of Statistics said in a statement on Friday. "Though the restrictions have been gradually lifted, there has been an impact on the economic activities." While manufacturing returned to growth, the services sector suffered a second consecutive double-digit decline. Government consumption also fell sharply in part because of an "inadequate fiscal response to the crisis," said senior India economist at Capital Economics, Shilan Shah. Positive preliminary results from AstraZeneca on its vaccine candidate is good news for India, given that it has one of the largest orders of any country and the vaccine will be produced locally. Shah added.

The vaccine is "the most encouraging sign yet that India has a route to ending its Covid-19 epidemic and the social distancing that continues to weigh on the economy," he said in a research note. But distribution challenges could mean a vaccine would not be widely available until the second half of next year, added Priyanka Kishore, head of India and South East Asia economics at Oxford Economics. There are also some concerns that a lack of clarity regarding data from the vaccine trials could delay regulatory approval. Both economists said that India's economy has a difficult path ahead. "The absence of a comprehensive fiscal response... will hamper growth going forward," Kishore said. Investors will be paying close attention when India's central bank meets next week.

"Under these circumstances, monetary policy is likely to remain very loose for the foreseeable future, and we think markets are too hawkish in expecting modest rate hikes in 2022," added Shah. The GDP data highlights the contrasting fortunes of India and China in the wake of the pandemic.
